NATIONAL ARCHIVES CATALOG ON MILITARY SERVICE RECORDS. For $5 this catalog can be obtained from the National Archives Trust Fund Board, National Archives and Service Administration, Washington DC 20408. It contains information on the following subjects:

- Revolutionary War
- Records of Volunteer Soldiers Who Served From 1784-1811
- War of 1812
- Indian Wars and Disturbances 1815-1858
- Mexican War

Civil War
War with Spain
Philippine Insurrection
Military Bounty Land Warrants and Pensions
Pensions for Civil War and Later Service
Veterans Administration Payment Cards, Pensions 1907-1933
Union Veterans and Widows of Union Veterans of the Civil War
The Negro in the Military Service of the U.S. 1639-1886
Prisoners During the Civil War (both sides)

(From Central Fla. Gen. Soc. "Buried Treasures")

BOUNTY LAND WARRANT APPLICATION FILES. The National Archives contains these records which are of greater value to the researcher than the pension applications because not everyone met the qualifications for a pension after the Revolutionary War. These records list a veteran's age, rank, military unit and period of service, as well as place of residence. An application by a widow gives her age and place of residence, date of her husband's death, date and place of the marriage, and her maiden name. An application may also list all of the veterans's heirs at law.

Applications filed before 1800 were destroyed in the War Department fire of November 1800, but there still remain cards listing name, rank, unit, warrant number, and number of acres granted. Applications which were filed after 1800 are kept in envelopes, many of which contain valuable papers such as family Bible records, marriage records, and affidavits testifying to the veteran's service and other papers.

PSGS members are advised to visit the National Archives branch in Seattle at Sand Point to obtain microfilms of these records. As an alternative, a copy of a Revolutionary War bounty land warrant application can be ordered by mail from the Archives using NATF Form 80, Order for Copies of Veterans Records. Provide name of the veteran, war in which he served, state from which he served, and if you have it, the application file number for bounty land warrants (obtained from Pamphlet number M804 listing surnames of veterans alphabetically).

NAMES AND SURNAMES. One of the first lessons a genealogist must learn is how to recognize changes and variations in both surnames and given names, an article in the National Gen. Soc. Newsletter reminds us. Donald Lines Jacobus, one of the leaders in genealogy for years, emphasized the following:

1. Surnames were derived from various ways--landed property, places of residence, occupations, physical traits, and even habits of dress. It should never be assumed that two persons with the same surname have a common ancestry.

2. The accenting of certain syllables often determined how a name should be spelled. When surnames were recorded, spelling variations resulted. The last syllable was often dropped: Atkinson became Atkins. The slurring of the final syllable produced Andrus from Andrews, or Marvell from Marvin.

3. Changes in the pronunciation of vowels made a difference. Pierson (originally pronounced as in "pear") became Parson or Parsons. A shift in consonants changed Langdon to Lankton. The suffix "-ville" became "-field." The final "s" was added or subtracted, such as Calkin became Calkins.

4. During Puritan times, given names often reflected moral virtues: Patience, Obedience, Charity, Thankful. With rare exceptions, middle names were not given until the end of the 18th century.

5. The same woman may be referred to as Anna, Hannah or Ann in different records. The same with Ellen, Eleanor, Helen, or Helena. Austin was derived from Augustine. The name "Annie" was not used in early New England, and if found is probably a transcriber's mistake for Amie, the old way of spelling Amy.

6. Women's nicknames were frequently used in official records. Molly or Polly was the nickname for Mary, while Patty or Patsy was the nickname for Martha. "The inexperienced researcher may make the mistake of concluding that Martha and Patty were two wives when they were in fact the same woman."

7. In certain times and places it was common to use the "a" ending in place of the "y" as in changing Sally to Salla. The old English custom of putting an "n" in front of a name beginning with "E" resulted in Ned being the nickname for Edward and Nelly for Ellen. Elizabeth was often abbreviated to Eliza (period). This was not the same name as Eliza (no period), which was not used as a variant of Elizabeth.

ARE YOU SURE ABOUT THAT STATE? An Associated Press story tells of a researcher trying to trace the real events behind one of New England's oldest folk ballads "The Ballad of Isaac Orcutt." The three versions of the ballad place the locale in Hartford and Westfield. Hartford is in Connecticut and Westfield nearby in Massachusetts. However, no record could be found of Orcutts in either state.

Finally, an Orcutt descendant from Texas discovered an old family record proving that New York was the correct state! The town of Hartford, N.Y. was formed in 1793 from what was then known as Westfield. A check of the 1790 census for New York showed the Orcutt family living there.

NORWEGIAN RESEARCH. The town of Stavanger in Norway has announced to American researchers that they are collecting and preserving emigration lists, church records and population censuses from all over Norway. A nominal fee of $10 will be charged. For further information write to Norwegian Emigration Center, P.O. Box 410, N-4001, Stavanger, Norway. (Central Fla. Gen. Soc.)
