A BIT OF HISTORY

From the Federation of Genealogical Societies Newsletter

In 1857, Congress made a $600,000 annual appropriation for mail delivery semi-weekly to California to a company headed by John Butterfield. Butterfield established his line with its eastern terminal at Memphis and St. Louis, and its Western at San Francisco. The postage rate was 20¢ an ounce for letters; passenger fare was $100 in gold. (Note that postage rates for letters are almost up to the 1857 rate again!) In 1860 the brief but colorful Pony Express was launched, carrying the news some 1975 miles in about 10 days. After only 16 months, the express gave way to the telegraph.
