

Discovering Your Ancestors – Series 3 with Janet O’Conor Camarata

Genealogy is an enriching and rewarding way to discover our own families. It involves learning about the variety of records and repositories available to genealogy researchers. In this series, learn more about focused genealogical research and more about your ancestor’s lives by using a variety of lesser known sources and approaches. This series covers detailed research planning, analysis of research results, historical and social research, church records, a variety of miscellaneous records, working with what was collected in your previous research and writing about your ancestor’s lives.

Sep 11 – Detailed Research Planning

Sep 25 – Analysis Process, Analysis Tools

Oct 2 – Historical Research, Church Records

Oct 30 – Social History, Calculating Our Ancestor’s Lives

Nov 6 – What to Do With What We Have

Nov 20 – Writing Your Research Results, Sharing Success Stories and/or Questions and Answers.